I colori, i materiali, i mood del momento si incontrano con le linee, le suggestioni e le forme di design. Si fondono tra loro, si compenetrano e rinascono nella nuova collezione di mosaici SKYLINE prodotta da SICIS. Punto di partenza della collezione è stata la volontà di utilizzare il mosaico in modo differente, spostando l'attenzione dalle forme organiche e tondeggianti ove questo materiale trova la sua massima espressione verso forme geometriche, linee decise, figure dai tratti più duri. Abbiamo utilizzato un numero limitato di colori per focalizzare l'attenzione sulla brillantezza e sulla profondità del nero, dei grigi e del bianco. Sfida ardua in considerazione del fatto che l'occhio e la mente di molti sono usi pensare al mosaico come esplosione di colore e di forma, come un amalgama ricco ed opulento ... Soluzione. Creare non semplici decori con forme geometriche e linee fini a se stesse bensì un racconto, una storia che spiegasse il nostro decoro e che donasse ad esso valore. Il pensiero è volato al concetto di skyline che ha poi dato il nome alla collezione. Letteralmente questo termine indica la "linea del cielo", ovvero il profilo delineato contro il cielo dal panorama degli edifici di una città e dai loro punti più elevati, anche se nell'uso comune è quasi sempre utilizzato come sinonimo di grattacieli e quindi di "America". Ci si potrebbe chiedere quale sia il legame tra l'arte del mosaico – esclusivamente ed orgogliosamente italiana – e quel concetto di grattacielo da noi così lontano ... disegnare, progettare, creare significa anche studiare, approfondire, informarsi e così leggiamo che "... da principio, come noto, la Torre di Pisa pendeva solo un pochino, difetto veniale come lo schiacciamento dei poli o lo strabismo di Venere. Ed era la più alta, la più bella del mondo. Secondo i membri dell' Ar.Bo.Scal. (Ar per archeologi, Bo come botanici, Scal da scalpellini) proprio da quelle forme, da quei marmi, con elastica energia sarebbero nati Manhattan ed il celebre skyline. Torre di Pisa svettante capostipite, perno genetico, nonna nonnissima della grande famiglia dei grattacieli o skyscrapers ..." da Fiabe Storte di Ennio Cavalli. Storie, fiabe, racconti la cui veridicità può rimanere dubbia. A noi, piace pensare che sia così ed attraverso i nostri pannelli vogliamo trasmettervi la linea del cielo reinterpretata in mosaico!

The Skyline Collection

The colors, the materials, the mood of the moment meet the lines, the suggestions and the forms of design. Fused together, they create a blend and create a new life, SKYLINE, the new mosaic collection produced by SICIS. The starting point of the collection was the desire to use the mosaic in a different way, shifting the attention from organic and rounded shapes where this material finds its best expression to geometric shapes, definite lines, and patterns with clear and defined features. We used a limited number of colors to focus on the brilliance and the depth of black, grey and white. A hard challenge considering that human eye and mind are used to thinking of mosaic as an explosion of color and shape, as a rich and opulent amalgam... The solution: to create not just simple decorations with geometric shapes and fine lines per se but rather to tell a story, a tale explaining our decoration and giving it value. The thought flew to the concept of skyline which gave the name to the collection. Literally this term indicates the "sky line", and refers to the outline of the urban buildings and their highest points against the sky, even if, in the common use, it's almost always used as a synonym for skyscrapers, therefore for "America". One might wonder where the connection is, between the art of mosaic - exclusively and proudly Italian - and the concept of a skyscraper so far away from us... drawing, designing, and creating means to study, to investigate, to get informed; therefore we read that "... from the beginning, as we know, the Tower of Pisa was leaning just a little bit, an excusable fault just like crushing of the poles or Venus strabismus. It was the highest, the most beautiful in the world. According to Ar.Bo.Scal. members ("Ar" for archaeologists, "Bo" as botanists, "Scal" from stone-cutters), with an elastic energy, right from those shapes and marbles, Manhattan and its famous skyline would be born. Tower of Pisa soaring parent, genetic pin, like a grandmother, like a big grandmother to the large family of skyscrapers ... "from Fiabe Storte by Ennio Cavalli. Stories, fairy tales, tales whose truthfulness may be doubtful. We like to believe in this and through our panels we want to convey the sky line reinterpreted in mosaic!

“Amo New York City.
Sono venuto qui per amore del suo cielo.
Nelle città europee i tetti sono bassi
ed il cielo striscia a terra tanto
da sembrare addomesticato.
Il cielo di New York City è bello perché sembra spinto lontano dalle nostre teste
dai grattacieli.”

(Jean-Paul Sartre)

“I love New York City.
I came here to love its sky.
In European cities, roofs are low
and the sky crawls on the ground,
so much so that it seems tamed.
New York City sky is beautiful because it seems pushed far away from our heads
by skyscrapers.”

“ Vivere è percorrere il mondo attraversando ponti di fumo; quando si è giunti dall'altra parte che importa se i ponti precipitano. Per arrivare in qualche luogo bisogna trovare un passaggio e non fa niente se scesi dalla vettura si scopre che questa era un miraggio.”

“ Oggigiorno un’automobile forma parte integrante della vita di ciascuno, è l’accompagnamento sonoro e visivo di tanti pensieri, sentimenti, conversazioni e decisioni, e viene ad assumere l’importanza di una delle stanze di casa. E il separarsene, quali che ne siano le deficienze, è come il perdere un elemento del proprio ambiente familiare. ”
(Jan Struther)

“ A car, nowadays, was such an integral part of one’s life, provided the aural and visual accompaniment to so many of one’s thoughts, feelings, conversations, decisions, that it had acquired at least the status of a room in one’s house. To part from it, whatever its faults, was to lose a familiar piece of background. ”
